Gabrielle Englander is a Rhode Island native but has called Florida home since she was ten years old. After graduating from the University of South Florida, Gabrielle began her legal career starting as an intake specialist and legal assistant, then progressing to a litigation paralegal before attending law school at the Appalachian School of Law in Grundy, Virginia. Gabrielle has experience practicing personal injury, domestic relations, criminal defense, contracts, warranties (state/federal), product liability, and illegal towing. Prior to joining Vernis & Bowling, Gabrielle practiced business and commercial litigation.

Gabrielle manages and defends cases through all stages of insurance litigation, from the initial determination of a claim through settlement. Gabrielle's goal as a defense attorney is to provide timely, consistent, and responsive advice to clients, offering strategies, and innovative solutions to meet clients' different objectives. Gabrielle has worked for years to develop a highly organized and time-efficient process to prioritize client deadlines, needs, and guidelines.

Gabrielle resides in Saint Petersburg where she enjoys outdoor activities, live music, and traveling.
